

Pre-LETS Day Questionnaire

This questionnaire is to get an idea of how familiar you are with forests before LETS Day on October 11.

Your email address (jharlin@las.ch) will be recorded when you submit this form. Not you? Sign out

My first name:

Your answer

My last name:

Your answer

My grade (7, 8, 9, or 10):

Your answer

Do you have forests where you are from?

YES

NO

If yes, describe the forests where you are from? What are the trees like? What kinds of plants and animals live there? How do the forests change over the course of the year? Write details about the forests where you come from.

Your answer

If no, why aren't there any forests? Did there used to be forests? Think about why there aren't forests and write details about it.

Your answer

What is phenology?

- the study of forest mushrooms
- the study of seasonal changes that plants and animals experience
- the study of the mating behavior of ferns
- the study of mountain environments
- Other :

What is a forest sample plot?

- the entire area of a forest
- the area of a forest that is close to trails and roads
- a small area of a forest that is representative of a larger area
- a book that includes all the kinds of trees in a forest
- Other :

When measuring the circumference of a tree...

- always measure as low to the ground as possible
- always measure in meters (m)
- never ask a partner for help

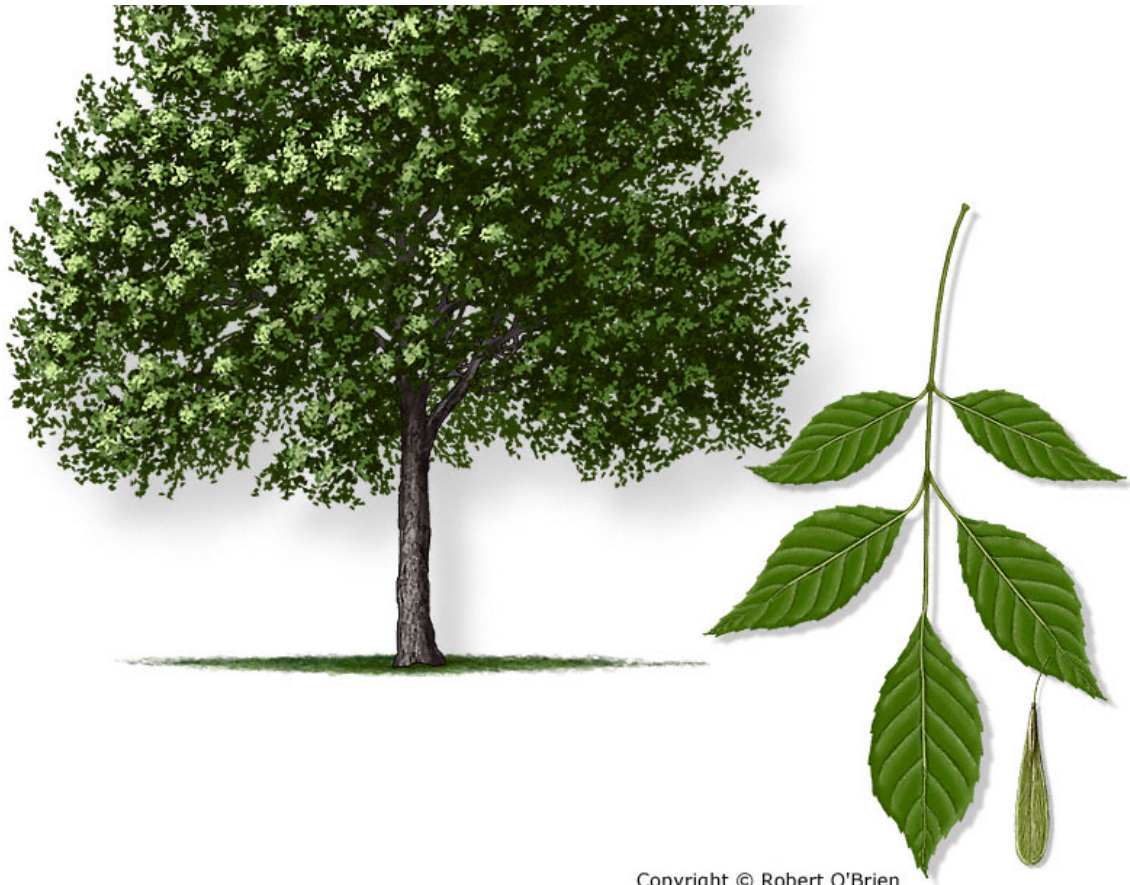

- always measure at an average man's chest height
- Other :

Classify the tree in the picture below using the words coniferous, deciduous, evergreen, and broadleaf.

- deciduous conifer
- evergreen conifer
- broadleaf deciduous
- broadleaf evergreen

Copyright © Robert O'Brien

Classify the tree in the picture below using the words coniferous, deciduous, evergreen, and broadleaf.

- deciduous conifer
- evergreen conifer
- broadleaf deciduous
- broadleaf evergreen
- Other :

The most important article of clothing when doing forest ecology in the mountains is...

- sturdy shoes with good soles
- pants
- a jacket
- all of the above
- Other :

Send me a copy of my responses.

SUBMIT

Never submit passwords through Google Forms.

Google Forms

